THE FIRST THEATERS

The stone steps of an ancient theater in Greece

- I
- 1 Many people enjoy the different types of entertainment that they can get on their computers and phones. Many also like to go to concerts to listen to their favorite music. And
- 5 some people like to visit a theater to watch actors perform a play.
- II
- People also went to theaters to see plays thousands of years ago. We can still visit some of those ancient theaters today. People built
- 10 them on hills near important towns in Greece. The audience sat on stone steps on the side of the hill. Each theater was huge, and 20,000 people went to each play.
- III
- In those theaters, actors worked very hard. Each actor had more than one part in a play. It was also hard because actors shouted all the time so that everyone in the audience could hear them. The best actors got prizes and they became famous in all of Greece.

AN EASY WAY TO HELP BLIND PEOPLE

- I 1 When Sally Grant goes out, she always takes her dog, Lucky, with her. Sally is almost blind and Lucky helps her, especially with crossing roads and getting on buses. However, sometimes Sally needs people to help her. "At the supermarket, I know where everything is," she says, "but sometimes there is important information on a product that I can't read. For example, I want to
- 5 know the date on a yogurt but I can't see it."

- II Fortunately, Sally now has a wonderful app* on her phone. The name of the app is Be My Eyes (BME) and it helps people who are blind or almost blind. When she uses this app, it connects her to a volunteer. She explains her problem and points her phone camera at the information that she cannot read. Then the volunteer reads it to her.
- III 10 All over the world, half a million people who are blind or almost blind have the BME app. Five million volunteers also have the app. The people who made the app say they want blind people and volunteers to "see the world together." And that is exactly what happens.
