A PIANO AT THE TRAIN STATION

- I 1 Pine Hill is a quiet little town in the east of Canada, with a green park and a few small cafés. Every morning, its train station is full of people. When they walk in, they often hear music. An old piano stands near the trains, and anyone can sit down and play it.
- II The piano was not always at the station. For many years, it stood in the music room of an old
5 school nearby. When the school closed, the town brought the piano here. Tom Miller works at the station. "Music on the way to work makes people happy," he explains. "And when a train is late, the wait doesn't feel so long."
- III But a station is not an easy home for an old piano. Winters there are very cold, and cold air can hurt a piano. So the people of the town take care of it. Every evening, they put a warm 10 blanket* over it, and in the morning someone takes the blanket off again.
- IV The piano has many fans in Pine Hill. One of them is Sara Green, a nurse. On Friday mornings, she plays at the station for a few minutes. When she finishes, she gets on the train to the city, where she works at a hospital. "It makes my whole day better," she says.

BALLOONS OVER GREEN VALLEY

- I 1 Green Valley is a small town in the west of Canada. For one week every summer, it holds a big festival of hot-air balloons*, and pilots and visitors arrive from many different countries. The balloons are all colors and shapes. Some of them look like animals or flowers, and a few look like houses. A prize of 1,000 dollars goes to the most beautiful balloon.
- II 5 Flying a hot-air balloon is not easy. A strong wind can push a balloon the wrong way, so in most places pilots can fly only on calm days. Sometimes they wait for weeks!

Green Valley does not have this problem. High mountains stand all around the town and keep the wind out, so the air there is calm on most summer mornings.

- III The festival began in 1995 with only four balloons, and very few people came to watch
10 them. Things are different now. Last summer, more than 60,000 visitors came to the little town to see the balloons.
- IV One of last summer's pilots was Leo Hart from Australia. His balloon looked like a big yellow bee, and it did not win anything. "I didn't mind at all," he says. "It was the best week of my life!"
